Without doubt this rate of dividends shows a prosperous business, but how far the prosperity is due to privileges enjoyed under the national system may be judged, from the near approach which State banks make to national banks in their earning capacity. f 7. There is no doubt that, in adopting the national banking system the majority of Congress understood themselves to be establishing the agency by which the sole paper currency of the country should be issued in the future. The legal tender issues were still regarded as a temporary expedient, resting upon For many years the largest surplus held has belonged to a bank which issues no notes, but has accumulated many times the amount of its capital. It is true in general that the banks of largest surplus have not owed it to their issue of notes. t In New York,...
